

Website Disclaimer

Guenin Law Office, P.C.

The purpose of this website is to provide general information to individuals and businesses interested in Guenin Law Office, P.C. (hereinafter Guenin Law). This website is not intended to solicit clients.

The information provided within this website, including all information provided from external links within this website (collectively hereinafter Information), is being provided as is and is being provided for informational purposes only. Although the Information may be updated periodically, the Information may not constitute the most current, most complete, or most accurate information. Guenin Law expressly disclaims all liability based on the Information.

The Information is not, nor is it intended to be, legal advice. Accordingly, seek the legal advice of an attorney in the appropriate jurisdiction before acting or relying on the Information. Neither the providing nor the obtaining of the Information creates an attorney-client relationship with Guenin Law. Further, neither contacting nor providing information to Guenin Law via this website, electronic mail, or otherwise creates an attorney-client relationship with Guenin Law without the express consent of both the purported client and Guenin Law. Guenin Law cannot guarantee the confidentiality of electronic communications.

The Information does not necessarily reflect the opinions of Guenin Law or any of its attorneys, employees, or clients. Guenin Law is not responsible for, nor does it endorse, any information, products, or services provided from the external links provided within this website.

Guenin Law maintains offices in the State of Indiana and neither intends nor purports to practice in any other jurisdiction, unless admitted pro hac or otherwise.